Childserve Ames Day Programs offers child care for medical specialty with programming meant to serve as early intervention for autism and is intended to serve children ages 2 to 6 years in age.. The administrative offices are located in Johnston and Barb Williams is the service manager for the ChildServe centers. Emily Hofer is the director of this center. She has a degree in Family and Consumer Sciences and has worked at this center since 2005. Rachelle Florry is the on-site supervisor, as well as the Ames Child Serve manager. Rachelle has a Bachelor's of Science degree in Speech and Hearing Sciences, she has worked at Child Serve for over 20 years. Both meet the requirements for their positions.

This center is located within the main building for Childserve in Ames; which is located in a newly constructed building that was designed to be utilized for this program. The Childserve Ames Day Programs uses the components of a curriculum known as the STAR curriculum; which is to align with therapy goals identified for each child within their individual plans of care. The STAR curriculum incorporates aspects of skills building and tracks progress. The program hopes to help improve the long-term goals for the children--specifically with independence and social/emotional aspects. The children were content and staff were highly engaged with the children's activities that were based on the child's goals for that day. The restrooms were clean and supplied. The staff were in ratio (note Childserve often utilizes a lower ratio of child/staff then required by licensing standards).

Lunch and snacks are provided, and menus are in-line with CACFP guidelines for a healthy variety in dietary offerings. This center is enrolled in the CACFP food program. There are also occupational and speech therapies available on-site.
